

Limoncello Italian Restaurant & Wine Bar

in St. Michael's will open a new 120-seat location in Locust Point. It will feature fresh seafood, homemade pastas, Neapolitan pizzas, and lots 'o cocktails that feature...wait for it...Limoncello. LimoncelloStMichaels.com.

Blackwall Hitch signed on to open a 10,300-square-foot restaurant on the ground level of 700 E. Pratt Street in the former Candler Building at the Inner Harbor. Expected to open this fall, the new restaurant will be the fourth spot for Blackwall Hitch, which also has locations in Alexandria, Annapolis, and Rehoboth Beach. TheBlackWallHitch.com.

Fare Thee Well

By now, you've probably heard that Suburban House Deli a.k.a. S&H, a Pikesville institution, has closed. No more coddies, rainbow cake, or matzo ball soup. Sad. Steve's Deli in Owings Mills and Lenny's Deli Lombard Street have also closed.

Now, another Pikesville food landmark, Goldman's Kosher Bakery, has closed its doors, including the location in Seven Mile Market. No more chocolate-tops. Very sad.

The Truck Stops Here

B-more food truck owners Joey Vanoni (Pizza di Joey) and mah gurl Nikki Marks (Mindgrub Café) joined forces with the Institute for Justice to challenge legislation that bans mobile vendors from operating within 300 feet of brick-and-mortar restaurants selling comparable products. Recently, the Baltimore Circuit Court ruled that the ban had a "lack of standards" and was "too vague for the city to enforce."
